[13-14] Read the passage and answer the questions.

In the past, there were no such words as ‘G9’ and ‘L8R.’ As more and more people use the Internet, they have started to create their own special language. Words are not complete, expressions are reduced, and feelings are (가)being expressed with symbols instead of words. Some people call this new language Internet slang. Is Internet slang good or bad?

Yuna says:

Internet slang comes from the need of the people. They want to deliver simple messages quickly. I think it’s okay to use Internet slang when it has been (나)using in the proper situation.

Minsu says:

I’m against Internet slang. Clear messages are better than ones that use Internet slang. When the message is important, writing complete sentences is helpful for better understanding.

Inseong says:

Although slang is not correct, it sounds (다)more friendly. When I talk with my close friends on the Internet, we use slang on (라)purposing. It shows close friendship.

Minji says:

In my opinion, slang harms grammar and spelling. That’s a big problem. These days, it’s easy to see smilies or the word, ‘THX’ on a report or even on an exam paper!

Jisu says:

I don’t think so. We have learned how to write properly at school. It really doesn’t matter as long as we know when to use Internet slang and when not to.

Jiseok says:

I’m afraid that people who are learning a second language may think that it is okay to use Internet slang. They may use it in the real world, too.

There are many different ideas on using Internet slang. Some say it delivers messages quickly. (마)The other think it’s hard to understand and is incorrect. How about you? (A) Are you for it or against it?

13. Among (가)~(마), which is the most correct? (3점)

[16-18, 서4] Read the passage and answer the questions.

Here Parents, teachers, fellow graduates, I would like to welcome each of you to today's a graduation ceremony. (가) Today is a very important day for us. We are here to finish one part of our lives. It seems like only yesterday when we entered our first class here. We thought this day would never come. But here we are now to celebrate the bittersweet moment of congratulations and goodbyes.

(나) As we look back on the past three years, we have shared many memories. We remember those moments with regrets and smiles. When we first entered this school, we were young boys and girls. (A)우리는 우리의 미래가 어떤 모습일지 궁금했었습니다. When we moved up to the second year, we had a clearer picture of our middle school life. We traveled together and got to know each other better. We voluntarily participated in school events and showed our talents. (다)

Finally, the third year was the hardest part of our middle school life. We went through teenage life with many questions unanswered. In the meantime, we kept practicing and gained more knowledge of the world outside. We lived our middle school life to the fullest. It has been a great experience. We wouldn't change it for anything. Today, we are finally on the finishing line.

Tomorrow, we will be on another starting line. But the knowledge and experience we gained from middle school will lead us to wisdom. (라) Lastly, I'd like to thank every one of you. You have supported me and my fellow students all the way. Thanks for the memories. They were great. Congratulations. We made it! (마)
