Ⓓ It's getting valuable metals from old electronics.

③ Ⓐ - Ⓓ - Ⓔ - Ⓑ - Ⓒ ④ Ⓔ - Ⓑ - Ⓓ - Ⓐ - Ⓒ
⑤ Ⓔ - Ⓒ - Ⓓ - Ⓐ - Ⓑ

[12-14] Read the text and answer the questions.

We live in a world where people dispose of old electronics without a second thought.

(Ⓐ) Electronics that people don't use anymore and throw away are called (A)'e-waste.'

(Ⓑ) E-waste has been increasing quickly. Too many computers, TVs, monitors, cell phones, and other things are thrown away each year. Most of this waste ends up in a mountain of e-waste that harms the environment. (Ⓒ)

How can we solve the problem of e-waste? 'Urban Mining' is one way. E-waste contains large amounts of valuable metals such as gold, iron, and copper. Getting gold from old electronics is better than digging it from the earth. That's why it's called 'Urban Mining.'

There are also two green reasons to practice 'Urban Mining.' (Ⓓ) First, the earth does not have enough materials to keep making things forever. So, it's better to recycle materials than to dig them from the ground. Second, if people keep throwing away their electronics, it will lead to mountains of e-waste. 'Urban Mining' helps materials to go back to the places where they came.

(Ⓔ) Why don't you try finding value from things around you?

[15-16] Read the text and answer the questions.

December 8, 1980 was the fateful day John was murdered by a crazed fan as he tried to enter his New York apartment. But what actually happened? On the night he died, ①the Beatles star and his wife Yoko had been having a night on the town. After enjoying dinner, they decided to pop back to their apartment to say goodnight to their son, Sean.

Usually, the couple would have gotten out of their limo to use a secure entrance to the Dakota Building in Strawberry Fields, but on this occasion they stepped out onto 72nd Street. Mark Chapman was there waiting for ②the 40-year-old and his wife. Lennon and Chapman had already met - John had signed an autograph for him earlier that day. After months of stalking him, Chapman had flown for one last time to New York from Hawaii - he'd made the trip several times over preceding months - and lay in wait with a Charter Arms .38 pistol, which he'd smuggled in his luggage.

He shot at the musician five times, four of which hit ③his target. John did not die instantly. Some reports claim he then attempted to climb the steps of his building to get help, but collapsed. When police arrived, Lennon was lying face down in a pool of blood. NYPD officer Tony Palma picked up Lennon with the help of his partner Herb Frauenberger and dragged him to their squad car. Meanwhile ④the young stalker, 25 at the time, calmly removed his coat and waited to be arrested.

A team of doctors then spent 15 minutes trying to resuscitate Lennon in the hospital, but his injuries proved too much and he died at 11pm. Chapman was later sentenced to 20 years in prison. He admitted he'd funded his stalking trips to follow ⑤the singer by selling a Norman Rockwell painting. He bragged at the time of his arrest that it had involved 'incredible stalking' and 'incredible planning.' His reason for orchestrating such tragedy? He wanted the bright light of fame, of infamy, and of notoriety. "I couldn't resist it." 36 years on, Yoko still lives in the Dakota building.
