[7-9] Read the text and answer the questions.

In the past, Ⓐthere were no such words as long as 'G9' and 'L8R.' As more and more people use the Internet, they have started to create their own special language. ⒷWords are not complete, expressions are reduced, and feelings are expressed with symbols because of words. Some people call this new language Internet slang. Is Internet slang good or bad?

Yuna says:

Internet slang comes from the need of the people. They want to deliver simple messages quickly. I think it's okay to use Internet slang as long as it is used in the proper situation.

Minsu says:

I'm against Internet slang. Some people may find Ⓐit difficult to understand it. ⒸClear messages are better than ones that use Internet slang. When the message is complex, writing complete sentences is helpful for better understanding.

Inseong says:

ⒹDespite slang is not correct, it sounds friendlier. When I talk with my close friends on the Internet, Ⓔwe use slang in purpose. It shows how close we are.

Minji says:

In my opinion, slang harms grammar and spelling. That's a big problem. These days, it's easy to see smilies or the word, 'THX' on a report or even on an exam paper!

Jisu says:

I don't think so. We have learned how to write properly at school. It really doesn't matter as long as we know when to use Internet slang and when not to.

Jiseok says:

I'm afraid that people who are learning a second language may think Internet slang is okay to be used anywhere. They may use it in the real world.

There are many different views on using Internet slang. Some say it helps deliver messages quickly and sounds friendlier. Others think it's hard to understand and is incorrect. How about you? Are you for it or against it?

7. Among Ⓐ~Ⓔ, which is correct in grammar and in meaning? (3점)

- ① Ⓐ ② Ⓑ ③ Ⓒ ④ Ⓓ ⑤ Ⓔ

8. Which has a grammatically different usage with (A)? (3점)

- ① He asked me if it was true what he said.
 ② We found it easy to solve the math problems.
 ③ I thought it strange to throw away so much food.
 ④ I believe it difficult to make my dream come true.
 ⑤ I don't consider it necessary to answer the questions all the time.

9. Which of the following are true according to the text above? Choose two. (3점)

- ① Minsu thinks using Internet slang helps people understand complex messages better.
 ② Inseong agrees with using Internet slang because it makes people feel close to each other.
 ③ Minji is for Internet slang because people can learn how to write properly through the Internet.
 ④ Jiseok is against Internet slang because second language learners can be confused about when to use it.
 ⑤ Jisu thinks people should learn Internet slang at school so that they can send messages to their friends quickly.

10. Which of the following is most appropriately explained? (3점)

- ① award: a special ability that allows someone to do something well
 ② talent: knowledge that is gained by having many experiences in life
 ③ fellow: an equal in rank and power or a member of a group with common characteristics

<Positive Media Influence on Teens>

Before you decide to pull the plug on the internet, check out how the media influences teenagers - in a good way!

1. Help Develop @Awareness: Most teens live a sheltered life. However, with news channels, magazines and social networking sites blaring about world happenings, teens can realize that there is more to the world than just what is happening in their neighborhood.

2. Help Develop Social Skills: Many teens are socially awkward. Media gives them the chance to practice their social skills. It also gives them the chance to expand their social circle and develop new friendships. Other disadvantages include social confidence, heightened literacy in the media, and more social support.

3. Help Fine Tune Motor Skills: Video games draw a lot of controversy these days. But there's some good in video games too! Some video games can help teens develop and fine-tune their motor skills and coordination.

<Negative Media Influence on Teenagers>

We seem to be drowning in information. But for teenagers, this information overload can be the cause for serious concern. Check out the negative social media influence on teenagers:

1. @Distorted Body Image: The world is full of perfect people today. With perfect skin, body, and hair - that's what it appears like to the young today. Thanks to Photoshop, the standard of beauty has become impossible to achieve. This has led to unhealthy body image among a number of teenagers, both boys and girls.

2. Making Everything Commercial: Happiness comes at a price. At least that's the message teenagers get through media. Their life would be perfect if only you'd buy them that hot new game, that beautiful dress. Advertisers target teenagers to ramp up their revenues. But teenagers fall prey to the idea of commercialization of happiness.

3. @Obesity: Chances are your teen today spends most of their time sitting in front of the TV or computer. Playing outside and exercising has become a rarity. Adding bad eating habits to that, teens will get overweight easily.

In conclusion there are many good points and bad points to using the internet. The key is moderation. [서술형 1] (A) With moderation, you can practice all the good points and avoid the bad!

11. Among (a)~(e), which is not appropriate? (3점)

It started before I was born. My biological mother was a young, unwed college graduate student, and she decided to put me up for adoption. She felt very strongly that I ①should have been adopted by college graduates. But My biological mother later found out that my parents ②have never graduated from college at that time. She refused to sign the final adoption papers. She only relented a few months later when my parents promised that I would someday go to college.

And 17 years later I did go to college. After six months, I couldn't see the value in it. I had no idea what I wanted to do with my life and no idea how college was going to help me figure 서술형3 it out. And here I was spending all of the money my parents ③have saved their entire life. So I decided to drop out and trust that it would all work out OK. It was pretty scary at the time, but looking back it was one of the best decisions I ever made. The minute I dropped out I could stop taking required classes that didn't interest me, and begin dropping in on the ones that looked interesting.

Reed College at that time offered perhaps the best calligraphy instruction in the country. Because ④I had dropped out and didn't have to take the normal classes, I decided to take a calligraphy class to learn how to do this. I learned about serif and san serif typefaces. It was beautiful, historical, artistically subtle in a way that science can't capture, and I found it fascinating. None of this had even a hope of any practical application in my life. But ten years later, when we were designing the first Macintosh computer, it all came back to me. And we designed it all into the Mac. It was the first computer with beautiful typography.

If I had never dropped out, ⑤I would had never dropped in on this calligraphy class, and personal computers might not have the wonderful typography that they do. Of course it was impossible to connect the dots looking forward when I was in college. But it was very, very clear looking backwards ten years later.

[16-17,서4] Read the text and answer the questions.

I was lucky — I found what I loved to do early in life. Woz and I started Apple in my parents garage when I was 20. We worked hard, and in 10 years Apple had grown from just the two of us in a garage into a $2 billion company with over 4000 employees. We had just released our finest creation — the Macintosh — a year earlier, and I had just turned 30. And then I got fired. How can you get fired from a company you started? Well, as Apple grew, we hired someone who I thought was very talented to run the company with me, and for the first year or so things went well. But then our visions of the future began to diverge and eventually we had a falling out. When we did, our Board of Directors sided with him. So at 30 I was out. And very publicly out. What had been the focus of my entire adult life was gone, and it was @devastating. It was a very public failure, and I even thought about running away from the valley. But something slowly began to dawn on me — I still loved what I did. The turn of events at Apple had not changed that one bit. I had been rejected, but I was still in love. And so I decided to start over.

I didn't see it then, but it turned out that getting fired from Apple was the best thing that could have ever happened to me. The heaviness of being successful was replaced by the lightness of being a beginner again, less sure about everything. It freed me to enter one of the most @creative periods of my life. During the next five years, I started a company named NeXT and another company named Pixar, and there fell in love with an amazing woman who would become my wife. Pixar is now the most successful animation studio in the world. In a @remarkable turn of events, Apple bought NeXT, I returned to Apple, and the technology we developed at NeXT is at the heart of Apple's current renaissance. And Laurene and I have a wonderful family together.

I'm pretty sure none of this would have happened if I had not been fired from Apple. It was awful tasting medicine, but I guess the patient needed it. Sometimes life hits you in the head with a brick. Don't lose faith. I'm @convinced that the only thing that kept me going was that I loved what I did.

You've got to find what you love. And that is as true for your work as it is for your lovers. Your work is going to fill a large part of your life, and the only way to be truly @satisfied is to do what you believe is great work. And the only way to do great work is to love what you do. If you haven't found it yet, keep looking.
