Love you with all my heart
Love you whenever we're together
Love you when we're apart.

For if I ever saw you
I didn't catch your name
But it never really mattered
I will always feel the same.

And when at last I find you
Your song will fill the air
Sing it loud so I can hear you
Make it easy to be near you
For the things you do endear you to me
Oh, you know, I will
I will.

The Seoul Metropolitan Government recently announced measures to better tackle the waste problem at the parks, as it is getting serious along with the growing number of visitors to them.

According to the city, about 40 million people visited the 11 Han River parks in 2008, but that number surged to 75 million by 2017. Along with the visitors, the amount of waste produced also skyrocketed from 3,806 tons in 2015 to 4,832 ton last year.

As a part of the measures, the city will make it mandatory for all snack stores or camping site operators in the parks to put their store names on garbage bags, to better grasp the origin of trash and check whether the stores separate waste for recycling properly.

In addition, cleaning guidelines will be set for organizers of events in the parks, and violations could result in a ban of holding future gatherings there.

As tents have been one of the causes of damage to plant life and waste production, people will be only allowed to set them up in designated areas, and the time will be limited to the hours of 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Violators will face a 1 million won ($875) in fine.

The city will also ban the distribution of food delivery flyers, which will only be allowed on designated bulletin boards around the park.

It will increase the cleaning time of the parks by staff from three times a day to four times and even operate a cleaning team late at night.
